CITY OF LONDON ENTERS CONSULTING AGREEMENT WITH peopleCare FOR DEARNESS HOME

London City Council voted last night to approve an agreement with peopleCare Inc. for consulting services.

The consulting services will include conducting an operational review and identifying any areas for improvement. As part of their review, peopleCare will provide access to its team of professionals with expertise in multiple areas of long-term care and potentially develop an action plan to achieve accreditation for the Dearness Home.

“peopleCare is please to be working with the outstanding caregivers at Dearness in London”, said peopleCare CEO Brent Gingerich. “Dearness is a beautiful new state of the art Long Term Care home that provides an array of fantastic programs for residents and their families”.

Civic Administration will report back by the end 2012 with respect to long term options for the Dearness Home.

“We expect a full and thorough operational review and a report identifying and prioritizing any areas of improvement in policy, procedures or practice and with respect to long term options for the Dearness Home”, said London Mayor Joe Fontana.
